NORFOLK'S ADVANTAGES AS A SEAPORT.

When a country has been stricken down by the hand of adversity, her people rest much of their hopes of the future upon the developments of the past. With this view, and in order to divine what the South may yet do for herself, let us see what she has done in years past; and in order to resort to facts and figures in support of our argument, we submit the following carefully prepared statistics, taken from the census reports of 1850 and 1860, for the scrutiny and examination of all concerned. We place these statistics before the public, in our History of Norfolk, in order that they may be readily referred to; and in order to their appreciation, we contrast the facts with the most favored of the Northern States:

POPULATION.

This table gives population, population per square mile, and increase from 1850 to 1860:

| STATES. | Population. | Population per Square mile. | Increase from '50 to '60—per cent. |
|----------------------|-------------|-----------------------------|------------------------------------|
| Maryland..... | 687,000 | 73 | 18 |
| Virginia..... | 1,506,000 | 26 | 12½ |
| North Carolina | 993,000 | 22 | 14½ |
| South Carolina..... | 704,000 | 29 | 5½ |
| Georgia..... | 1,057,000 | 18½ | 16½ |
| Florida..... | 140,000 | 2½ | 60 |

| Missouri..... | 1,182,000 | 17 | 73 |
| CONTRAST. | | | |
| New York..... | 3,880,735 | 84 | 25 |
| Pennsylvania..... | 2,906,115 | 63 | 25 |
| Ohio..... | 2,339,502 | 58 | 18 |
| Illinois..... | 1,711,951 | 30 | 101 |
| Indiana..... | 1,350,428 | 40 | 36 |
| Massachusetts..... | 1,231,000 | 157 | 24 |
| Connecticut..... | 460,150 | 98 | 24 |
| Maine..... | 628,250 | 21 | 5 |

In 1860, the Northern States had nearly nineteen millions and the South twelve and a half millions of people; and this table proves that the Southern States were not behind many of the Northern, in the increase of their population, though the North has had vast additions from annual immigration. Vermont (table not given here) had not increased as much as South Carolina (five per cent.), and Maine not as much as any of the other Southern States.

ANIMALS IN 1860.

In 1860, the North had three-fifths and the South two-fifths of the population of the Union. The following table shows the proportion of animals in each section:

HORSES.

North—3,450,000, or 100 horses to every 550 persons. South—2,665,000, or 100 horses to every 470 persons.

MULES.

North—123,000, or 1 mule to every 154 persons. South—1,030,000, or 1 mule to every 12 persons.

MILCH COWS.

North—5,320,000, or 100 cows to every 350 persons. South—3,408,000, or 100 cows to every 400 persons.

WORK OXEN.

North—1,078,000, or 1 to every 18 persons. South—1,167,000, or 1 to every 11 persons.

OTHER CATTLE.

North—6,500,000, or 100 to every 300 persons. South—8,160,000, or 100 to every 150 persons.

SHEEP.

North—16,315,000, or 100 for every 120 persons. South—7,000,000, or 100 for every 150 persons.

SWINE.

North—11,870,000, or 75 for every 100 persons. South—20,688,000, or 175 for every 100 persons.

VALUE OF ANIMALS SLAUGHTERED IN 1860.

North—$126,000,000. South—$96,500,000.

FARM PRODUCTS.

INDIAN CORN.

North—398,000,000 bushels, or 21 bushels to every person. South—432,000,000 bushels, or 37 bushels to every person.

WHEAT.

North—122,500,000 bushels, or $6\frac{1}{3}$ bushels to every person. South—48,600,000 bushels, or 4 bushels to every person.

IRISH POTATOES.

North—98,000,000 bushels, or $5\frac{1}{2}$ bushels to every person. South—12,000,000 bushels, or 1 bushel to every person.

SWEET POTATOES.

North—380,000 bushels, or 1 bushel to every 50 persons. South—41,220,000 bushels, or $3\frac{1}{2}$ bushels to every person.

PEAS AND BEANS.

North—3,190,000 bushels, or 1 to every person. South—12,000,000 bushels, or 1 to each person.

TOBACCO.

North—51,400,000 pounds, or $3\frac{1}{2}$ pounds to each person. South—378,000,000 pounds, or 32 pounds to each person.

BUTTER.

North—373,000,000 pounds, or 20 to each person. South—86,000,000 pounds, or 7 to each person.

HONEY.

North—10,670,000 pounds, or $\frac{1}{4}$ pound to each person. South—14,330,000 pounds, or $1\frac{1}{4}$ pounds to each person.

ORCHARD PRODUCTS.

North—$15,000,00 in value. South—$4,600,000 in value.

GARDEN PRODUCTS.

North—$12,000,000 in value. South—$3,200,000.

WINE.

North—1,450,000 gallons. South—400,000 gallons.

COTTON, SUGAR, RICE AND MOLASSES.

These products are not named in this table because the South produces all of them and the North none. They are the staples of southern soil and climate only, and constitute the chief exports of the Union. These tables are intended to show that in all the leading food articles, the South is as fertile and productive as the North, and her great staples of cotton, sugar, molasses, rice and tobacco, give her a prominence over the North, as the latter produces none of these save tobacco. Her crop of Indian corn, 1860, was 88,000,000 bushels more than in 1850; and her wheat crop increased 33 per cent. from 1850 to 1860, while that of the North increased but 25 per cent. Her butter crop increased 50 per cent. from 1850 to 1860.

MISSOURI, KENTUCKY, TENNESSEE AND MARYLAND.

In the census tables, Maryland is classed with the middle and the other three with the western States. But as they were all slave States in 1860, they are here classed with the southern States.

COMMERCIAL FACILITIES.

The South has most of the great rivers of the Union, and one of the best harbors in the world. Hampton Roads can shelter all the commercial marine on the globe, and the largest steamers ever yet built can find easy access to Norfolk.

RAILROADS.

Before the war, the South was nobly doing her part in building up artificial channels of commerce; and she was up with the North in constructing those great iron rivers without sand-bars or snags. From 1850 to 1860 New York doubled her lines of railroad. Virginia, with less than half the population and not one-third the wealth, trebled hers. Pennsylvania built 1,700 miles; Tennessee, with one-third the population and wealth, built 1,200 miles; the New England States built 1,200 miles; the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida, with less population and wealth, built 2,500. New York spent $65,000,000, Virginia $52,000,000, and the South Atlantic and Gulf States spent $125,000,000 in railroads from 1850 to 1860. From 1850 to 1860 the wealth of Massachusetts, with all the aid of tariffs and fishing bounties, increased but 42 per cent.; that of poor South Carolina increased 90 per cent., without any Government aid. The wealth of New York increased 70 per cent.; that of Virginia 84. In 1860 the value of northern products exported was $164,000,000; southern, $208,000,000. These latter have helped build up the shipping interest of the North until, besides sailing vessels, it is estimated that three steamships leave New York daily for Europe.

Were the productions of the South sent to our southern seaport—Norfolk—how long would it be before the same steamships would come after them? How long would it be before Norfolk would begin to assume the dimensions of a city? How long before her growth would reflect her prosperity upon the whole South, as that of New York does upon the whole North? New Orleans is no seaport. Not one of the large Cunard or French steamers can come up the Mississippi to her wharves. The same is true of Mobile, Savannah, Charleston, Baltimore and Philadelphia. Norfolk, New York and Portland, are the only harbors on the Atlantic spacious enough for such steamers. New York is directly east of, and nearest to, that great Northwest so rapidly settled up during the past twenty years; and she is the natural outlet for all the trade of that region. Hundreds of thousands of emigrants land there annually; they go west from there, send their produce there, buy their supplies there. This necessarily draws large amounts of capital there, and that capital naturally seeks to multiply itself. Through railroads, it now bids for our cotton, and proposes to take it to New York as low as it can be sent to Norfolk—three hundred miles nearer to us. Is there any reason why Norfolk may not absorb this business of exporting southern products, such as cotton, rice, tobacco, etc? No sensible man can give any but the absurd one that New York has the start of Norfolk. Norfolk has the great advantages of harbor proximity to the southern staple, and she need only use some little of the energy which distinguishes New York to succeed as well as her most sanguine friends could wish. Twenty years ago New Orleans exported three-fourths of the cotton crop. All sent to Memphis was exported via New Orleans. Now look at it. In 1860 we received 390,000 bales, and 170,000 bales were shipped North, to the Ohio Valley factories, or to the eastern cities. It is thought that nearly two-thirds of the crop sent here last season went northward to market. This is building up the northern cities and impoverishing southern ones; and this impoverishment will be effected upon the whole South in a greater or less degree. Our people are deeply interested in building up a direct export trade through a southern city with a capacious harbor, and thus inviting an import trade through the same channel. Had Norfolk exported the cotton that New Orleans did, twenty years ago, her spacious anchorage and deep inlets would have given her a corresponding import trade. If she could export 100,000 bales of cotton next year, the ships would not return in ballast. Had she 200,000 souls and a growing commerce with Europe, the country west of her, from as far as Memphis, would begin to teem with an energetic population, stimulated to industry by prosperity all around them. Instead of a few villages of five hundred or a thousand people, we should see small cities springing up along the line from Memphis to Norfolk; a line far richer in natural resources than any in New York or Pennsylvania. Would not Memphis feel the influence of a dozen cities between this city and there, along the great consolidated lines of railways—such as Utica, Syracuse, Rochester and Schenectady. Would not the travel on her great eastern line be quadrupled, and would not all this be aiding in building up our seaport as well as the Great West? Would it not bring capital and more population, and more capital and power and independence? Norfolk has all the advantages over New York, for southern trade, except capital. Southern products produce this fruit, and it will grow as well at Norfolk as at New York, if we plant and cultivate the tree.

SCRIMSHAW PATENT
CONCRETE PAVEMENT COMPANY,
OFFICE, No. 12 ROANOKE AVENUE,
NORFOLK, VA.

Having purchased the exclusive right within and for the cities of Norfolk and Portsmouth and the county of Norfolk to use the Coal Tar, Coal Ashes, Cinders, Sand and Gravel Composition, or CONCRETE, in its application to STREETS, WALKS, and for all other purposes to which the same may be applied, which right was originally secured by Letters Patent, numbered 29,722, granted to Geo. Scrimshaw, of Pennsylvania, and known as the SCRIMSHAW PAVEMENT, are now prepared to contract for the application of this important improvement to public streets, cemetery grounds and vaults, the areas around public and private buildings, play grounds of schools, private gardens, lawns, stables, cellars and vaults of every description, etc., etc. We are ready to execute any work of this kind promptly, in the best manner, and on the most reasonable terms.

This pavement is now being rapidly introduced in many of our northern cities, where it has been most thoroughly tested and cordially adopted. For illustrations of its fitness for carriage ways, we refer all to Bedford avenue, Montague and Henry streets, and Park Place, Brooklyn, N. Y.; also, Prospect Park and Greenwood Cemetery.

IMPORTANT SUGGESTION.

There are various and important advantages to be derived from the adoption of this improvement, some of which may be thus briefly stated :

1. The surface is unbroken and perfectly smooth, and so remains through all the extremes of temperature.

2. The frost neither ruptures the concrete nor heaves the ground beneath in such a manner as to break the common level. Ice or sleet will not form on it as on brick or stone.

3. The work is so laid down, with a slight convexity or grade, that no water can remain on the surface.

4. The constant transit of horses and vehicles over a roadway covered with this concrete occasions very little noise.

5. The street is easily kept entirely free from dust and mud at much less cost of labor than is required to clean a stone or brick pavement, as no grass can possibly vegetate on or penetrate it.

6. Its application to our principal avenues and streets would involve a vast annual saving in horses and carriages.

7. Whilst the fluid and solid portions of wood inevitably change and decay, there is no element in the concrete pavement that is subject to chemical decomposition.

8. As the most immediate and powerful deodorizing disinfectant and anti-septic elements enter largely into the composition of this concrete, it follows that its general application is of the greatest conceivable importance to

THE PUBLIC HEALTH.

The attention of the public authorities, of medical men, and of all property holders, is respectfully invited to a consideration of the peculiar claims of an improvement which, in the estimation of competent judges, is in every way superior to any other kind of pavement now in use.

R. CRAWFORD, JR., Manager.
